A daily financing charge may apply to each open position at the closing of the Company's trading day related to that CFD. If such financing charge is applicable, it will either be requested to be paid by a client directly to the Company or it will be paid by us to the client, depending on the type of CFD and the nature of the position the client holds. The method of calculation of the financing charge varies according to the type of CFD to which it applies. The financing charge will be credited or debited (as appropriate) to the client's account on the next trading day following the day to which it relates.

The Company reserves the right to change the method of calculating the financing charge, the financing rates and/or the types of CFDs to which the financing charge applies. Changes in our swap interest rates and calculations shall be at our own discretion and without notice. Clients need to always check information for the current rates charged. Information concerning the swap rates for each Instrument is displayed on the trading platform. Rates may change quickly due to market conditions (changes in interest rates, volatility, liquidity, etc.) and due to various risk related matters that are at the firm's sole discretion.

As a client, you acknowledge that when leaving a position on a CFD overnight, a premium may be either debited or credited to your account balance. Information concerning the swap rates for each Instrument is available on the Trading Platform and on our website.

32.2 Expiry Transactions and Rollover

For certain Instruments on our Trading Platform that are based on Futures Contracts, we may, in our sole and absolute discretion, and acting reasonably, decide to set an automatic Rollover to the next contract so that they do not automatically expire, unless you or we close the Position before the Expiry Date, in accordance with this Agreement.

We may, at our sole and absolute discretion, with respect to an instrument which has an automatic rollover, amend the pre-communicated date of the automatic rollover. Where an automatic Rollover occurs, the original position will remain open and continue trading on the next contract. In these cases, an adjustment will be made to your Equity in order to reflect the difference between the price of the expired contract and the price of the new contract. We may also make a Spread adjustment at the time of Rollover.

We may, at our sole and absolute discretion, with respect to an Instrument which has an automatic Rollover, remove the automatic Rollover and set back an Expiry Date. Such a change will effect both new positions and existing open positions. In such circumstances, we will notify you by email prior to such change to any existing trade, however, you acknowledge that it is your responsibility to make yourself aware of the specific Instrument details available in the instrument tab on the Trading Platform. In respect of a Rollover of an open position, it is your responsibility to ensure that your Trading Account has sufficient available funds to meet the margin required on any relevant new trade to be entered into as part of a Rollover.

You acknowledge that the trading of certain instruments on the Trading Platform may become volatile or illiquid without warning. In such circumstances, it may not be possible to execute orders on your behalf, particularly in the period shortly before an expiry, usually for instruments based on Futures Contracts. If we determine that it would be in our customers' best interests, we may switch to a new contract under a different exchange. Such action would normally require an early rollover of the existing contract; but, in some circumstances, we may need to execute an early expiry, in which case you will receive prior notification by email.

We reserve the right acting reasonably and in accordance with our regulatory obligations to require you to close out Transactions in a timely manner in the event that a trading instrument is removed from the Trading Platform. Where Transactions remain open for more than 7 days following our requirement for you to close them out, we reserve the right to close such Transactions on your behalf at the last available price.

Limit orders to buy and stop orders to sell must be placed below the current market price, and limit orders to sell and stop orders to buy must be placed above the current market price. If the bid price for sell orders or ask price for buy orders is reached, the order will be filled as soon as possible at the price obtainable in the market. Limit and stop orders are executed consistent with the Company's Order Execution Policy and are not guaranteed execution at the specified price or amount unless explicitly stated by us for the specific order.

32.5 Execution Practices in the Financial Instruments

32.5.1 Slippage

You are warned that Slippage may occur when trading in financial instruments. This is the situation when at the time that an Order is presented for execution, the specific price showed to the Client may not be available; therefore, the Order will be executed close to or several pips away from the Client's requested price. So, Slippage is the difference between the expected price of an Order and the price the Order is actually executed at. If the execution price is better than the price requested by the Client, this is referred to as positive slippage. If the executed price is worse than the price requested by the Client, this is referred to as negative slippage.

A Slippage is a normal element when trading in financial instruments. Slippage often occurs during periods of illiquidity or higher volatility (for example due to news announcements, economic events, and market openings and other factors) making an Order at a specific price impossible to execute. Your Orders may not be executed at declared prices. Slippage may appear in all types of accounts we offer. It is noted that Slippage can occur also during Stop loss orders, Limit orders, and other types of Orders.

We do not guarantee the execution of your Pending Orders at the price specified. Limit Orders can be filled at either requested or better price, while Stop Orders can be filled at worse, requested or better price. The resulting Slippage is always subject to market conditions at the time of the execution and the Company has no power of controlling the executed price.
